WASHINGTON, March 5.-(P)-In line with President Roosevelt's plea, a 10 per cent slash in hours of labor and a corresponding increase in pay for industries under NRA was outlined tonight by Hugh S. Johnson at meetings called to discuss methods of reinvigorating the recovery unit.

Johnson, NRA administrator, made t plain that his proposal was tentative, but for some time such a plan, to be accomplished by a blanket presidential order after the completion of the present code revision conferences, had been foreseen. Questioning one of his own economists, A. J. Hettinger, Johnson said the 10 per cent cut could be accomplished by provisions whereby industries not in a position to reduce hours further would obtain speedy exemptions.

team to victory."

The team is before me this morning—3,500 leaders of 600 greater organized industries representing, as measured by employment, more than 90 per cent of the industrial field which is covered by the NRA. Naturally I am deeply gratified that the faith which I expressed last June is so well justified in March.

I do not undertske_today to present either a broad review of all the manifold causes which led up to the distressful situation from which the nation is emerging or a recapitulation of the events, the measures and the results of this past year. You are here as the direct representatives of only one element in our complex modern life but at the same time because of the fine spirit you have shown I can congratulate you on an approach to your own problems which shows an understanding of the many other problems which cris-cross and dovetail into each other to make up the broad objective of the American people.

BAD TIMES LAID TO SELFISHNESS.

It is sufficient for me to point out once more that the difficult and dangerous situation into which the United States had got itself was due to the general attitude, "Every man for himself, the devil take the hindmost." Individuals were seeking quick riches at the expense of other individuals. Geographical sections were seeking economic preference for themselves to the disadvantage of other sections. Cities were recklessly offering inducements to manufacturing plants to move away from other other sections. Cities were recklessly offering inducements to manufacturing plants to move away from other cities. Within given industries unfair competition went on unheeded or resulted in vast consolidations whose securities were peddled to the public at dishonest prices. There was little consideration for the social point of view and no planning whatsoever to avoid the pitfalls of overproduction or of selling methods which foisted articles on a gullible public, which the family budget could not afford. That is a strong picture but you and I, in the bottom of our hearts, know that it is a true picture. Most of us participated in the making of that picture. We did not know as much then as we know now and because our eyes have been opened it is possible that future history will call that crazy decade of 1919 to 1929 one of the greatest blessings that ever came to the American people.

Text of Roosevelt Address

March, 1933, was so serious that all along the line that remedies had to be applied to every phase of the illness. The objective was, as you know, to apply these remedies in the American way and not to copy those which are being tried in other countries which do not live under the same form of democratic government as ours. I am always a little amused and perhaps at times a little sadand perhaps at times a little sad-dened—and I think the American people feel the same way—by those few writers and speakers who pro-claim tearfully either that we are now committed to communism and collectiveness or that we have adopt-ed fascism and a dictatorship. The real truth of the matter is that for real truth of the matter is that for a number of years in our country the machinery of democracy had failed to function.

Through inertia on the part of leaders and on the part of the people themselves the operations of government had fallen into the hands of special groups, some of them vociferously led by people who undertook to obtain special advantages for special classes and others led by a handful of individuals who believed in their super-human ability to retain in their own hands the entire business and financial control over the economic and social structure of the nation.

The fine response given by the

The fine response given by the overwhelming majority of the com-ponent parts of industry as repre-sented here today proves to me that you have the same understanding of you have the same understanding of our broad purpose as is held by the average of the workers of the United States—and that word workers means almost all of the American people. You have shown sincere de-sire for real co-operation; you have shown prompt response to the gov-ernmental request for national unity.

shown prompt response to the governmental request for national unity. For this support I give my thanks. RECOVERY ACT DRAWN FOR GREATEST NUMBER.

The national industrial recovery act was drawn with the greatest good of the greatest number in mind. Its aim was to increase the buying power of wage earners and farmers so that industry, labor and the public might benefit through building up the market for farm and factory goods. Employer, wage earner and consumer groups are all represented on its boards with the government; all three groups with the government must have the interests of all the people as their main responsibility.

What we seek is balance in our economic system—balance, between agriculture and industry and balance between the wage earner, the employer and the consumer. We seek also balance that our internal markets be kept rich and large, and that our trade with other nations be increased on both sides of the ledger. You and I are now conducting a great test to find out how the business leaders in all groups of industry can develop capacity to operate for the general welfare. Personally I am convinced that with your help the task is succeeding.

The very conception of NRA fol-

I am convinced that with your help the task is succeeding.

The very conception of NRA fol-lows the democratic procedure of our government itself. Its theory of self-regulation follows the Ameri-can method rather than any of the experiments being tried in other na-tions. The very fact that you have tions. The very fact that you have been in Washington to criticize and to discuss the way NRA is working out is sufficient proof of this point.

There are some people, of course, who do not think things through; who do not think things through; as, for example, the man who complained in one of vesterday morning's papers that criticism was held to be unpartiotic. Let me put the case so clearly that even his type will understand. If we admit that the government was a specific problem to solve and undertakes to do it in a specific way, the critic is unin a specific way, the critic is un-patriotic who contents himself with loudly proclaiming that that way, that method is no good; that it won't work; that it is wrong to do this. This critic contributes nothing—he is not constructive; he is unpatrotic because he attempts to destroy with-out even suggesting a way to build On the other hand, the critic is patriotic whether he be a Disiness-man, a worker, a farmer or a poli-tician if he says: I don't like the methods you are using to solve the problem; I believe it would be far better if we were to use the following alternate method, and thereupon outlines for the benefit of his neighbor and his government a helpful proposal.

In this great evolution through which we are passing, the average American is doing splendid service by coming back at the captious critic and saying to him, "Well, old man, and what do you suggest?" One thing is very certain, we are not going back either to the old conditions or to the old methods. to the old methods. And now to be more specific in regard to NRA itself. You have set up representative government in industry. You are carrying it on without violation of the constitutional or the parliamentary system to which the United States has been accustomed.

United States has been accustomed. Your industrial groups are composed of two parts—labor and management; and the government is a participant in this organization in order to carry out this mandate of the law, to "promote organization in industry for the purpose of co-operative action in trade groups and to induce and maintain united action of labor and management under adequate government sanction and supervision." Somebody, of course, must strike the equitable balance between conflicting interests and especially must protect the third group—the consumer—and that word "consumer" means the whole American people.

That group has also been in Wash-whole American people.

That group has also been in Washington, invited to come here and to make known publicly any complaint as to the effects of any of the codes. I am sure it will hearten you to know that the great majority of the complaints were directed not at the codes but at errors and omissions in what has been done under codes. The great bulk of complaint or criticism of the recovery act does not go to the act itself or to its basic principles, but rather to the details of more method. In this we should feel encouraged and heartened that we are on the right track and can go forward.

In working out the balance on a national scale, of which I have spoken before, we can list certain immediate objectives. I spoke last June of the fact that wage increases will the fact that wage increases will eventually raise costs but I asked that management give first consideration to increasing the purchasing power of the public. I said, "That is good economics and good business. The aim of this whole effort is to restore our rich domestic market by raising its vast consuming capacity."

Complaint has been made of a few industries and of some companies that have not followed this suggesthat have not followed this suggestion, and evidence brought forward shows that in some cases these complaints are justified. What I said was true in June and it is true now. The first task of industry today, as it was then, is to create consuming rows.

as it was then, is to create consuming power.

BULK OF MARKET
AMONG 90 PER CENT.

We must remember that the bulk of the market for American industry is among the 90 per cent of our people who live on wages and salaries and only 10 per cent of that market is among people who live on profits alone. No one is opposed to sensible and reasonable profits, but the morality of the case is that a great segment of our people are in actual distress and that as between profits first and humanity afterwards we have no room for hesitation. With millions still unemployed the power of our people to purchase and use the products of industry is still greatly curtailed. It can be increased and sustained only by striving for the largest eachedule of prices on which sustained only by striving for the lowest schedule of prices on which higher wages and increasing employ-ment can be maintained.

Therefore, I give to industry today this challenge: It is the immediate task of industry to re-employmore people at purchasing wages and to do it now. Only thus can we continue recovery and restore the balance we seek. It is worth while keeping in the front of our heads the thoughts that the people in this country whose incomes are less than $2.000 a year buy more than two-thirds of all the goods sold here. It is logical that if the total amount that goes in wages to this group of human beings is steadily increased is logical that it the total amount that goes in wages to this group of human beings is steadily increased merchants, employers and investors will, in the long run, get more income from the increased volume of sales. I want to speak for a moment directly to the public. In my initial statement of policy I said:

"Finally, this law is a challenge to our whole people. There is no power in America that can force against the public will such action as we require. But there is no group in America that can withstand the force of an aroused public opinion. This great co-operation can succeed only if those who bravely go forward to restore jobs have aggressive public support and those who lag are made to feel the full weight of public disapproval."

You all know what happened. We gave you the Blue Eagle as a symbol of co-operation. Its display in a shop or factory window, or upon a garment, or product, or delivery wagon, informed you that the firm garment, or product, or delivery wagon, informed you that the firm with which you were dealing was dowith which you were dealing was doing its part in this great national co-operation to defeat depression.

For the first time—so far as I know
—all of the people in this country were given a part in making a law effective.

This is a law for the public benefit Obviously an employer who pays

This is a law for the public ben-efit. Obviously an employer who pays Blue Eagle or code wages cannot compete with an employer who does not. It is therefore common sense for the consuming public in their own interests, as well as for labor and for industry, to join in seeing to it that the few who think only of selfish gain be made to play the game with the overwheelming majority with the overwheelming majority.

Every examination I make, and all the information I receive lead me to the inescapable conclusion that all the information I receive lead me to the inescapable conclusion that we must now consider immediate cooperation to secure increase in wages and shortening of hours. I am confident that your deliberations will lead you also to this conclusion. Reduction in hours coupled with a decrease in weekly wages will do no good at all, for it amounts merely to a forced contribution to unemployment relief by the class least able to bear it. I have never believed that we should violently impose flat, arbitrary and abrupt changes on the economic structure but we can nevertheless work together in arriving at a common objective.

The government cannot forever continue to absorb the whole burden of unemployment. The thing to do now is to get more people to work. Your self-governing groups are not

Your self-governing groups are not here to devise ingenious plans to circumvent the purpose of the act. You are here in a patriotic spirit to circumvent the purpose of the act. You are here in a patriotic spirit to effect these purposes. With few exceptions industry will give whole-hearted compliance. It is only in the case of rare exceptions where industrial self-government may fail that the government itself must and will, under the law, move firmly and promptly to prevent failure.

SAFEGUARDS NECESSARY FOR SMALL OPERATOR.

Under the code system you and I are aware that experience must be the guide for the working out of difficulties and the prevention of abuses. For example, you on code authorities are your industrial brother's keeper and especially are you the keeper of your small industrial brother. We must set up every safeguard against erasing the small operator from the economic scence. Many years ago anti-trust laws were passed and one of the primary reasons for their enactment was the protection of the little fellow against the big fellow. In many cases these laws failed to protect the little fellow. We do not want to maintain that condition. The essential provisions of the codes should check or reverse competitive methods by which the small businessman was or is being squeezed out.

These same anti-trust laws must the small businessman was or is being squeezed out.

These same anti-trust laws must continue in their major purpose of retaining competition and preventing monopoly; it is only where these laws have prevented the co-operation to eliminate things like child labor, and sweat shops, starvation wages and other unfair practices that there is justification in modifying them.

One more subject I call to jour special attention. The law itself has provided for free choice of their own representatives by employes. Those two words "free choice" mean just what they say. It is obvious that the government itself not only has the right but also the duty to see, first, that employes may make a choice and, secondly, that in the making of it they shall be wholly free. I ask that the letter and the spirit of free choice be accorded to its workers by every corporation in the United States.

We have been seeking experience

We have been seeking experience We have been seeking experience in our first eight months of code making; for that same reason we have been tolerant of certain misunderstandings even when they resulted in evasions of the spirit if not of the letter of the law. Now we are moving into a period of administration when that which is law must be made certain and the letter and the spirit must be fulfilled. We can not tolerate actions which are clearly monopolistic; which wink at unfair trade practices, which fail to give to labor free choice of their representatives or which are otherwise hostile to the public interest.

In a word, we cannot tolerate to the public interest.

In a word, we cannot tolerate abuses of economic power—abuses against labor, abuses against employers or abuses against the consuming public, whether they persist either with the aid of codes or despite their prohibitions. This does not mean that we can at once make perfect many hundred codes covering the major trades and industries of the nation, nor that we can get a mark of perfection in a day or a month, it does mean that we have arrived at the time for taking stock for cor-recting manifest errors, for rooting out demonstrated evils.

One year ago we were suffering and shrinking under economic pressures so intolerable that collapse was at hand. We had arrived at the day to make our choice. We made that choice, The American people responded to the call for action with eager enlistment—enlistment in the struggle against ruthless self-seeking, reckless greed and economic anarchy. We undertook by lawful, constitutional processes to reorganize a disintegrating system of production and exchange.

The methods and details of that The methods and details of that reorganization may and will change from year to year but it is very certain that the American people understand that the purpose of the reorganization was not only to bring back prosperity. It was far deeper than that. The reorganization must be permanent for all the rest of our lives in that never again will we nermit the social conditions which lives in that never again will we permit the social conditions which allowed the vast sections of our population to exist in an un-American way, which allowed a mal-distribution of wealth and of power.

The willingness of all elements to enter into the spirit of the new deal becomes more and not less evident as it goes on. As an example, I have just received a telegram from Francis M. Law, the president of the American Bankers' Association. In it he said: "On this your first anniversay please allow me in behalf of the country's banks to express our tration in Washington.

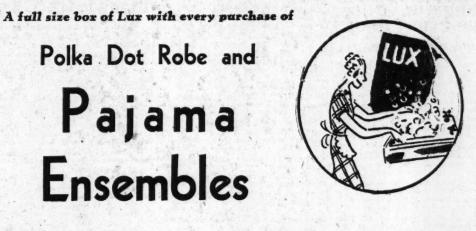

full confidence and our sincere desire to co-operate in your courageous ef-forts to bring about recovery. . . . Conditions have improved to the point where it is no longer necessary for banks to be super-liquid. There is a defi-nite call now for banks not to extend loose credits or to make improper nite call now for banks not to extend loose credits or to make improper loans but for a most sympathetic attitude toward legitimate credit needs and for a recognition of responsibility for their proper and vital part in the program of recovery."

Think back exactly one year ago today. You know where the banks stood at that time; you know where your own business stood. That telegram is a living illustration of the progress we have made. Let us consolidate our gains and let us resolve that that consolidation shall be for the continued progress and especially for the greater happiness and well-being of the American people.

The thing that makes "Chief" coal so desirable is, that the carbon (heat) content is very high, with just enough volatile gas to make it burn not too fast. It contains no foreign (unburnable) matter at all. Consequently, pound for pound, one gets a lot more for

The car—Sheriff Lillian Holley's sedan—was discovered, police said, in front of a north side apartment Saturday night, indicating Dillinger and his fellow fugitive, Herbert Young-blood, negro, had entered the city through the elaborate net which police spread to prevent it.

Three squads of officers were keeping a day and night watch at the apartment, with orders to shoot to kill if Dillinger showed up.

The re-mobilized "Dillinger squad" swept into action to search the north-west section of the city, where the desperado had a chain of hideouts when he was last at liberty from the Police believed Dillinger must have circled the city, after he was last seen at Peotone, Ill., Saturday and entered through the swanky suburbs on the less closely guarded north.

A mysterious "Mrs. Dillinger" to-day re-entered the case of the restless desperado and the soft-pine revolver —with which he bluffed his way out with which he bluffed his way out of jail. Crown Point officials, in the course of four investigations into Dil-linger's break, already had disclosed a brunette who said she was the gun-man's wife had been allowed to visit

Jail attaches today looked at pictures and said with surprise that "Mrs. Dillinger" resembled Elaine Burton—sweetheadt of another Dillinger gangster, John Hamilton. If they are the same, authorities believed, Dillinger must have been in communiwith his gang while in the Dillinger's lawyer, however, denied stoutly "Mrs. Dillinger" was anyone but Mrs. Dillinger—"his wife or his common law wife."

TO NAB DILLINGER

Four-day furloughs without pay and curtailment in delivery service in Atlanta have been ordered by the post-office department at Washington, to enable it to operate within its budget, the Postal Bulletin announced Monday. The changes will be in force through the rest of the fiscal year ending June 30.

Annual vacations with pay will be discontinued unless they can be granted with replacements and without extra expense. The 4-day furloughs apply to postmasters, officials and employes in the field service. Railway mail clerks will have payless furloughs of 3 1-4 days but rural carriers will not be furloughed. There will be only one mail delivery in residential sections: two in mixed residential and business areas, and three in the business districts.

"She'd say 'I go for you, honey'," said Bailiff Ralph Pierce, "and then she'd say 'Seven-twenty-three-nine-teen.' I made her stop it.

Prosecutor Robert G. Estill and other investigators said the woman might have smuggled money to Dillinger, might have told him of road routes over which to flee, and might have named a hideaway for him.

BALTIMORE, March 5 .- (49)-Contracts totaling $94,358,000 were awarded during the first two months of 1934 in the 16 southern states for construction, building and engineering projects.

The figure, based on reports issued by the Manufacturers Record daily construction bulletin, shows the value of contracts let to March 1 exceeds by more than 100 per cent the value for the corresponding period of 1933. The net gain was $47,496,000.

The net gain was $47,496,000.

As for the recovery unit itself, the president told his audience: "You have set up representative government in industry.

"Your thing is certain, we are not compared to the condition of the condition of the condition of school buildings, while universities and colleges are undertaking ambitious expansion programs."

Johnson, himself, led the explosion of applause that followed this statement.

Mr. Roosevelt explained why he had stressed re-employment and higher pay by reminding his listeners "We must remember that the bulk of the market for American industry is among the General building most in the general business situation is reflected in the number of small industrial enterprises started recently. Samuel P. Gilman, Livermore's attorney, said his client would once more triumph over "present difficulties," which he ascribed to the gradual "recession of prices in the spring of 1930 and the summer of 1932."

He added Livermore "made three large fortunes, failed three times and on each occasion paid every cent that he owed to his creditors, with interest."

Triends, we'll have the three great elements in American life working together, industry, agriculture and banks, and then we can't be stopped."

Johnson requested the audience to remain seated as the president left Constitution Hall but they rose with the president and remained standing. He went to another hall where persons who could find no room despite Constitution Hall's spaciousness, were gathered. The president chuckled as he told them that he would "tell you a secret."

He said his prepared address "is the longest speech I have made in all the past year" and "I said what I believe."

Fund for Tornado Sufferers Nearing $2,000 in Atlanta

Responding with enthusiasm to the need of tornado victims, Atlanta Monday contributed more than $1,000 for those made homeless, W. Eugene Harrington, chairman of the Atlanta Red Cross committee, which is undertaking the campaign, announced. The donations swelled the total almost to $2,000, Mr. Harrington said.

The campaign to raise funds for mied Monday after a hearing during which Edwards shouted "liar" in answering testimony of Dean Williams, a Florida witness, and started forward with a threat to "show him something here and now."

The request for the extradition was made after the grand jury of Columbia county, Florida, had indicted Edwards, a former candidate for governor and former Lowndes county member of the legislature, on a charge of "assault with intent to murder," the charge growing out of an automobile accident last October.

Edwards contested the extradition, charging that it was a subterfuge to get him in Florida, where a damage action, was planned against him, so that service of the damage suit might be obtained.

In declining the requisition on recommendation of his executive secretary, T. M. Linder, who conducted the hearing, Governor Talmadge said that he was refusing the request because it could not, be possible for Edwards to be guilty of assault with intent to murder, that the most serious charge which could have resulted from the accident was assault with intent to commit manslaughter.

Avoid Laxatives That Constipate!

Ever hear of "cathartic constipation?" Medicine laxatives cause it. Most of them work by irritating the membranes of the diges-tive tract—and when taken regularly lose their effect. Soon the laxative-constipation habit has you in its grip!

That's why more than 50,000 physicians recommend Pluto Water. For Pluto is not a drug or medicine laxative but a saline mineral water. The same amount each time—no need to increase it—always performs, does not gripe, gives positive results in less than one hour. It cannot give you the laxative habit!

Pluto Water is gentle - but It promptly opens the pylorus valve - permitting the flush to enter the intestines without anxious hours of waiting. The proper dilution-one-fifth glass Pluto in four-fifths glass not water - is practically tasteless. Take it whenever sluggish — get results within an hour and end that laxative habit! In two sizes: Splits (8 ounces), 25c —large bottles (3 times the quantity), 50c. At all druggists.

How to Relieve Headaches In Three Minutes

When you have one of those violent, nerve-racking headaches, from inorganic causes, you can get soothing relief in three minutes with "B. C.," a reliable, pleasant-to-take remedy. "B. C." is prepared by a registered pharmacist, compounded on a different principle from most relieficitying agencies in that it contains several ingredients so blended and proportioned as to accomplish in a few minutes what we believe no one drug formula can do in so short a drug formula can do in so short a time. "B. C." should also be used for the relief of muscular aches and pains.

Since the project was started eight years ago, it has been a bogey in legislative circles. Originally designed to cost $2,500,000 the unfinished plant already has cost twice that much.

Rumblings of a floor fight in the house over proposed modification of the state's prohibition laws were heard with the announcement that the liquor traffic committee would take action on the subject tomorrow.

Announcement that a contract has been signed in Tokyo for the organization of a Franco-Japanese syndicate for marketing French products in Manchukuo on a longterm French credit basis means that the French have stolen a march on the other exporting nations of the world and will be in on the ground floor while the rich trade of the new far eastern state develops.

That position should logically be occupied by the United States, but we have lost it, at least for the time being, because of our slowness to admit that the new state, however much the world powers may have objected to the manner in which it was born, is a permanent member of the family of nations.

Mr. Hector Bolitho has just given us a diary of a few weeks sojourn in the Holy Land. Marvin Lowenthal writes of this book in the Nation as follows: "The author of 'Beside Galilee' is not impartial, but—the next best thing to it—he is candid. All his life, he admits, he has disliked Jews. Crossing the Suez, he shivered with physical repulsion at the prospect of entering their land. Once there, Jew-ish energy naturally disconcerted him and tired him out. I gravitated away from these earnest Zionists, toward the drowsy Moslems. It is my nature and pleasure to do so. I like these less efficient Arabs."

Idaho Solon Raps "Sordid Profits" as Navy Bill Vote Nears.

WASHINGTON, March 5 .- (AP)-Approaching virtually certain passage of the half-billion-dollar naval con-struction bill, the senate today heard a vigorous plea for its rejection from Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, who charged munitions manufacturers were responsible for all wars through "insatiable greed" for "sordid profits."

Borsh, strong disarmament advocate, in one of the most vigorous speeches of his long career, declared American arms makers were now selling war equipment on a large scale in the orient. If war should break out between America and Japan, our soldiers would be "torn limb from limb and disembowled by munitions sold by their own compartiets." sold by their own compatriots."

Borah said "Capone and Dillinger are no more heartless or bloodthirsty than those who make arms and muni-tions for the disembowling of human beings.

"They break down governments," he shouted between readings from a magazine article denouncing war profiteers. "They kill human beings—and they do it for nothing but sordid aris"

Borah assailed European arms makers who, he asserted, furnished Hitler war equipment and campaign funds while Franco-German relations were strained, "not because they were for Hitler, but because they knew it would furnish a place to sell armaments.

He said France controlled munitions manufacture in all nations allied with her directly or indirectly.

Chance of Amending Court Procedure in Contempt Cases Acclaimed as Writer Denounces Old Method.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Editor's Note: The Constitution prints herewith the second of Westbrook Pegler's daily comments on life in general in the United States. Mr. Pegler, who has been known for years as the premier humorist among the nation's reporters and commentators on sports humorist among the nation's reporters and commentators on sports events, carries into his new work one of the most analytical minds in the newspaper profession. He often has been referred to as being as droll as Ring Lardner, as iconoclastic as Henry Mencken and possessing the homely insight of Will Rogers. While Mr. Pegler often may take views diametrically opposed to those of The Constitution, this paper will present his articles uncensored and uncut in the knowledge that Pegler will never prove less than thoroughly entertaining.

NEW YORK, March 5 .- It cheers me ot learn that there is at last some thought of amending court procedure to prevent a judge from acting as judge, jury and complaining witness in contempt cases, because it has always been my idea that if a citizen called a judge a crook, a bar-fly or a big, dumb dope to his face in open court he ought to have a chance to prove his opinion. If he should then be able to prove it to the satisfaction of a jury, the remedial action should be taken against the judge because his unfitness would then have been placed on record and his continued presence on the bench would be contrary to the dignity of the courts and the in-terests of the community. The old way of doing has been not only unfair to the defendant but bad for the courts as well because t has deterred persons with good reasons for holding a low opinion of certain judges from uttering these opinions out loud. This, of course, has had the effect of covering up the faults of certain judges and of buttering over with an undeserved dignity and sanctity many cheap or downright crooked characters whose accession to the bench was, of itself, a blow to the honor of the courts.

"PORCH-CLIMBER" IS FLATTERY.

It is certainly no discovery of mine that Judges have sat upon the bench, enjoying all the typrannical powers of the court, who ought to have been busting rock themselves and who would have been flattered by the name of porch-climber. The porch-climber at least is not fouling up an institution to which the ordinary citizen must look for his justice when he finds himself in trouble one way or another. He climbs his porch and takes his chances, but the crooked or trashy and reachable judge, whose kind has been known in every big city, and is not yet extinct, not only contaminates the courts but enjoys a power to prevent by mere intimidation, through the weapon of contempt, any allusion to his true character. I just think there is too much tyranny in the courts, anyway, and that even if a judge should happen to be an honest man and a pretty bright individual he still ought to be required to keep a civil tongue in his head to people appearing before him. If a judge glares at a citizen, even a defendant, or loses his temper because he happens to have a hangover at the time or merely because he is a man of bullying disposition, and lets out a great bellow at some-one who happens to annoy him, that individual, I think, should have the right to fetch him glare for glare and holler right back, at him without any impairment of his rights in the case.

Yet it is very well understood around all courts that it must be your honor this and may it please the court that and cases are often breaking into print in which judges maliciously increase the punishment of convicted defendants because they will not cringe. The man is convicted of the charge against him and is given, let us say, three years in prison, an outcome which tries his spirit to exasperation and impels him to blurt a sarcastic "thank you" to the man upon the bench. He is then called back before the bar sentenced to spend another year or two of his life behind the bars, not because of any crime which he has committed but because he was indiscreet enough to ruffle the dignity of a man whose vindicative conduct in the matter proves right there that he isn't fit for his job and ought to be fired like any other incompetent.

WHAT MAKES JUDGES SO.

I might say that I wonder what these judges feed on that they are so important and sensitive, but I know without asking They feed on a fat old tradition and an exaggerated awe which has been developing for a long time in the courts and they presently come to think of themselves as being subject to no law but their own erratic

But it may have been noticed that many changes are taking place in the country at this time and it would not startle me much to observe along with the other changes that the citizen, including even the defendant, has earned a right to speak and conduct himin a natural manner toward the court and resent insulting or bullying conduct from the bench without any risk of being thrown into jail for contempt of court.

I have knowledge of a judge, complete with all the customary powers of oppression, who, in the days when he was in private practice, put a physician on the stand to swear that his patient had not been injured in an accident, as alleged, but was dying of tuberculosis. The physician was ordered off the stand by the presiding judge with a mention of the word perjury and the patient in a dozen years since that time has evinced no symptoms of tuberculosis, but has never recovered from his injuries. If it should befall this patient to appear before this attorney, who is now a judge himself, it should be his right, I think, to allude to this incident and to express a belief in open court that his honor once connived at mething which impressed another jurist as false testimony under

But, under the present circumstances, that would be a very foolish thing to say. The judge, without any necessity of going into the facts of the matter which affect his fitness to sit on any bench, would throw the subject into some dirty fail for a long time to teach him respect for a judge who may deserve no respect. Vagrancy laws such as have been enacted in Illinois and California were brought to the attention of the jury, and Mr. Ottley requested that copies of such laws be furnished the grand jury for study and consideration. The court stated that there are in Fulton county many persons living in lavish-ness who can show no visible means of support, who would be subject to investigation under such laws.

Judge Pomeroy further admonished the grand jury to do all within its power to instill into citizens a general respect for the law and a realization of the obligation of the ballot, and to exercise supervision over the voting system with a view to keeping it free of contamination.

Referring to the investigation of the administration of county affairs, with which the March-April body is charged as a matter of law Judge Pomeroy recommended that the county records be inspected and department heads asked to submit records as to their work but in really to a request for work, but in reply to a request for specific instruction from the foreman stated that no far-reaching investiga-tion was contemplated in the court's charge unless the grand jury should find a reason therefor. Enrich His Impoverished Blood Sickly, weak, underweight children are sually lacking in rich, red blood. When lood becomes poor, a child becomes andown. Already weak, he loses appetite, which makes him still weaker. Take no chances on a child gaining strength by himself. Start giving him Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic right away. This famous tonic contains both iron and tasteless quinine. Iron makes for rich, red blood while quinine tends to purify the blood. In other words, you get two effects in Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic.

Put your child on this time-proven tonic for a few days and see the difference it makes in him. Good appetite, lots of pep and energy and red roses in his cheeks. Children like Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic and take it eagerly. It is absolutely harmless and has been a reliable y medicine for half a century. Get a bottle today at any store.

"Georgia's show ranked fourth at the World's Fair last year," Governor Talmadge said. "And we want to make it better this year at the least expense possible. Mr. Moore said plans would be formulated immediately whereby "every nook and corner" of Georgia will be represented at the fair. The fields of industry, agriculture, business, natural resources and other phases of Georgia life will be displayed in an exhibit which is expected to be larger than in 1933 and one which will be more comprehensive.

WILL BE DISCUSSED

Rich's book shop's Tuesday morn-ing lecture series will feature Sholom Asch's "Three Cities" today. Mrs. Emma Garrett Morris will give a brief outline of the author's life and a critical estimate of the book.

"Three Cities" was published late in 1933, and has already gone into its sixth printing. It is a tremendous book, a trilogy in one volume, depicting the anytopment and market leave. ing the environment and mental reactions of a people in the midst of the corruption, tyranny and spurious glitter that was exarist Russia.

st. Petersburg (now Leningrad), Warsaw and finally Moscow during the recent great revolution, are the three cities dealt with by the author. The story concerns itself mainly with two great Jewish families, vitally interesting men and women, against a background of historical and industrial turmoil. What happens to these people, how they are torn apart or people, how they are torn apart or cemented together by one of the most violent changes in social conditions the world has ever experienced, becomes of tremendous importance to the reader absorbed in this remark-able book.

Ludwig Lewisohn says "Three Cities" is an epic narrative of incomparable richness and breadth one of those works which, like 'War and Peace' and "The Magic Mountain' increase in fame and weight as time gags on These talks in Rich's book shop are open to the public without charge. Mrs. Morris will begin promptly at

IF you were in doubt about a business problem, would the collective judgment of 1,240,000 business men help you to a decision? If you could sit down and discuss every phase of business and finance with more than a million people, do you think you would learn something?

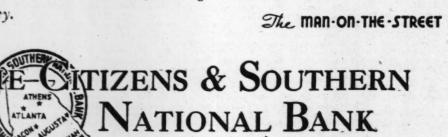

That is the sum of the collective experience of the bank officers in THE CITIZENS & SOUTHERN NATIONAL BANK.

The length of service of the average Citizens & Southern bank officer has been fifteen years. If he has talked with five business men per day, he represents the concentrated ideas and experiences of 22,500 men.

Daily he sits in a neutral position, with just one objective-to help if he can, in the problem immediately before him.

He is your bank officer-you are his customer. His whole attitude toward you is the philosophy—"The Success of The Customer is the Success of the Bank." He is available to you-every day-to give you the benefit of any knowledge or experience which he has acquired and which will be helpful to you.

In The Citizens & Southern, banking service means much more than the bandling of money.

MACON, Ga., March 5.-Primo Carnera, the heavyweight champion of the world, was walking about the rooms in the home of the late W. L. Stribling.

There were pictures on the wall. Many pictures. They showed the Georgia boy in fighting poses. In poses with his kids and in pictures taken on the farm at Ochlocknee.

He looked at his huge hands and his mind went back to a Paris ring where the lithe young Georgian was before him, his gloved fists flying. Primo was a hungry giant then and the fight was to put his name in es. He looked around the friendly room and back at a picture on the wall. His face was set in solemn lines as if he could not shake the picture from his mind.

"Too bad, too bad," said the giant, wagging his head. He looked at his big hands a moment and then dropped them dangling by his sides. It wasn't so many years ago that he and Stribling had fought twice in European rings. And tonight he was to box an exhibition round at a memorial for the Macon boy whose life went after a motorcycle accident a few

It was suggested to the giant that it was pretty swell of him to come from Miami by plane to take part in the memorial. He waved it aside.

"Primo," he said, "does not forget his friends."

A curious mixture of naivete and worldliness is this giant who happens to be heavyweight champion of the world. I have seen him in the ring and in repose. Emotions flit across his huge face.

A little later he was photographed with three chil-dren of the Georgia fighter. And one of them was the baby just five months old.

A little while before he had seen the five-month-old baby stand alone in his grandfather's outstretched hand and then hold with his tiny hands and hang from his grandfather's thumbs.

The giant had squealed his approval. And then he sat with the children and held the baby. It was an incongruous comparison and the puzzled look on the giant's face as he held one of the baby's hands in one of his own mastodonic paws was something elemental and something no camera will ever catch.

He was agreeable to everything. "Sure, sure," he said, his cavernous mouth in a wide grin. "Sure, sure."

HE TALKED ABOUT BAER.

When the cameras were done I asked him about Baer, Maxwell Adelbert Baer, whose attitude toward life may be learned from his statement that his initials stand for "My Adorable Boy.

Max Baer is the reigning sensation following his knockout last summer of Max Schmeling.

Primo's face grew solemn. His eyes, both of them blacked, incidentally, by Tommy Loughran in the Miami fight last week in which Carnera won a 15-round decision, flashed some Italian "Haw, dot Baer," he said. "He is afraid of me. He will not agree to fight. I think maybe he never fight no more," he went on, with a fine disregard for double negatives. "He has too much movie. He will

He ran out of English and began to use up some Italian in expressing his fine contempt for Maxwell Baer. He does not believe Max Baer can hurt him and he hopes that Max Baer, if and when they do meet, will rush him.

"Sharkey he rush me. No? Yes?" He was recalling the fighting rush which Jack Sharkey made in their fight a year ago. Sharkey rushed right in and impaled himself on one of the giant's uppercuts. It was this rushing fight by the Boston sailor that gave Carnera the championship of the world.

Carnera is under contract to Madison Square Garden. And Baer is under contract to Jack Dempsey. And neither will permit the other to promote the fight.

As a matter of fact, the Carnera syndicate, repreented here by Walter Friedman, has taken an intense dislike to the Garden and all its affairs. The contract expires in September. Meanwhile, there seems little chance of a Carnera-Baer fight. But Carnera is confident, remembering Sharkey's rush.

LOUGHRAN RAN AWAY.

The Loughran-Carnera fight of last week, in which Carnera was unable to knock out the veteran light-heavyweight, despite a tremendous advantage in weight and years, is a painful subject to the Carnera entourage.

The chamipon smiled painfully and tossed his broad shoulders in a Latin shrug when I asked about Loughran.

'He run away all de time," he said. "I cannot catch him." He also denied that he stamped on the feet of Tommy Loughran, although that is an old ring custom and one which most of the boys have indulged in.

Carnera was very pleased with the story by Mr. Heywood Broun which said that he, Primo, had actually outboxed the Philadelphia dancing master. Broun pointed out that the fight at Miami would be remembered because of the man who lost it; that no one remembered Waterloo because of Wellington, but because of the man who lost there.

Carnera can box. He is not, of course, a freak in any sense except as to size. He is well built. He is not disproportionate in any manner.

His feet are necessarily large, his shoes are made to order. I carefully refrained, from past experiences, from asking any questions about those feet. One of the visitors did and the giant scowled heavily and mum-

If he could punch he would literally annihilate any opponent. But his punches, with the exception of that uppercut, seem to lack power.

He remains a good-natured giant, agreeable and genial, but capable, nevertheless, of anger. It was a generous thing for him to do, this trip to Macon for the Stribling memorial.

Just as it was a generous thing for Maxie Rosenbloom and Johnny Risko to do. Rosenbloom, the light-heavyweight champion, and Risko had also fought Stribling.

MACON, Ga., March 5 .- Three of ny Risko-tonight paid their ring, the late W. L. Stribling.

In the afternoon the three fighters visited Stribling's grave in Riverside cemetery, where Carnera placed a wreath. This and their appearance here tonight proved that there's still sentiment left in the fight game. A near-capacity crowd, estimated at 3,500 persons, came to the Macon au-

ARRIVE WEDNESDAY.

Officials of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the tourney stated Monday that the first group of prominent out-of-town professionals are scheduled to arrive Wednesday and will practice Thursday morning and afternoon.

Bob Harlow, manager of the tournament bureau for the Professional Golfers' Association, now in Florida, wired Monday that he will arrive Wednesday and will have the names of several outstanding professionals to enter. The pros are playing in Florida and will arrive late Thursday or early Friday. He is at present at the Miami four-ball tournament in the hopes of signing up some of the stars not listed for the metropolitan open.

For example, we had always been led to think that about the only distinctive thing about the Rose Bowl football game of 1914 from a southern standpoint was that Wallace Wade, a young Tennesseean, played in it as a member of the Brown team, the east's representative that year.

Now we discover in doing this daily stint that a youth from Savannah, Ga., played right end for the Brown team in that game—the first Rose Bowl game at Pasadena—and distinguished himself. Wallace Wade, now coaching successfully at Duke University, was his teammate.

By H. A. CARTER

A very welcome and excited bit of news came my way Saturday at a meeting of the Atlanta Bird Club. The information was given me by Miss Berma Jarrard, the president of the club, that Dr. A. H. Wright, professor of zoology at Cornell, was on his way to Atlanta, on leave from the university, and will spend some time here. Veteran readers of this column will recall that Dr. Wright is the author recall that Dr. Wright is the author of that magnificent book on the "Frogs of Okefenokee Swamp." This is just one of a series of works that Dr. Wright has published on the frogs of North America, being No. 2 of the North American Salientia series. The book is undoubtedly the finest contribution to the herpetology of this region that has ever been made and it will be many a moon before the students in this continent produce a work of similar scope.

Further, the "Frogs of the Okefenokee Swamp" is part of the series of publications from the Cornell group on the natural history of the swamp. The plants and animals have been working the swamp rather steadily great debt to this man for making known so many important things in her wild life.

I have already spoken for at least two days of his crowded schedule and it shall be my pleasure to take him to the breeding grounds of our most interesting frogs. Preudacris nigrita, for example, is one species of the few in North America whose life history is not known. That is where I can fill in one gap and, with Dr. Wright's company for a few evenings in the marshes, this diminutive frog should yield its deepest secrets. Of course, there are other species that will need attention, such as the tree toad and the spring peeper, but these are secondary to the swamp cricket frog. All the species that inhabit the region around Atlanta will be studied rapidly for comparative data with what has been found in the species that contains the course of the state. for comparative data with what has for comparative data with what has been found in the south of the state.

I am looking forward to Dr. Wright's company on some interesting field work. How much time he will be able to spare for the work at hand I cannot imagine. I'll be willing to get, though, that he will do all he can to get at this frog situation as soon as possible.

Chance Looks Good in Tech Scrimmage

The Georgia Tech football squad opened another week of spring training yesterday afternoon in a long drill that included scrimmage.

Coach Alexander used mixed teams in the strength of the s in a one-hour offensive and defensive scrimmage. Chance and Lindsey, tackles; Ponder, an end, and Circus Lyons, a guard, showed up well.

Good progress is being noted by the coaches. And there will be considerable scrimmage from now until the end of the spring sessions.

The burlesque purveyors have sent to Atlanta the cleverest performer of them all, in Carmen. She makes all the others look like amateurs. In fact, speaking burlesquelly, you can't praise this girl too highly. She does everything and does it with that genuine art that weaves a spell over her audience and leaves them silent, for a moment, at her exit, until they awake with a start and realize that it is, after all, merely a theater in which they sit. Then the applause bursts in a roar and the only way In the second act she pens her specialty before a great crimson drop and sings a Hawaiian song to her own accompaniment on a guitar. Then she returns and gradually accelerates her dance until that barbaric spell mentioned earlier in this story is effectively woven all over the house In short, go see Carmen, positively! -RALPH T. JONES. bursts in a roar and the only way the show can go on is for the suc-ceeding performers to ignore the noise and do their stuff regardless.

NEW STAGE SHOW AT CAPITOL RUNS MUCH TO DANCING

snappier and more spectacular. Even leaving Carmen out of consideration, it is by far the best entertainment at the Atlanta since the new company came to town. Everything, songs, dances, stage sets and comedy, is better. If you are a fanatic about dancing you will find a feast that should provide you with a surfeit of your favorite entertainment at the Capitol theater now. For the stage sittled "Broadway Vanities," is nearly an exclusive dancing show that the rest doesn't matter.

The comedy is improved by being quicker. The gags are shorter and by that token possess more punch.

Ollie Hodges sings two numbers splendidly, "Monterey" and "Home on the Range." And Helene Davis, Esta Alja and Cora Lee all have good songs.

These three girls, also Carolyn, of course, do their usual effective strips, and the rest doesn't matter.

Of course there is the stage band, which Enrico Leide conducts during the overture while Russ Ferris, master of ceremonies with the show, takes over the baton for the performance itself. Enrico, by the way, enjoys himself playing his pet 'cello in the or-chestra itself, though he does thereby make the thirteenth member. Perhaps The comedy is improved by being uicker. The gags are shorter and course, do their usual effective strips, the stra itself, though he does thereby with the noisy gallery adding to the excitement. Frankly, the show was better last night because the strip of the dancers a girl billed as better last night because the strip numbers were fewer.

The opening "Show Boat" scene, the Spanish number, the Ladder of Love number were especially well done. That scene for the "Home on the Range" song was as fine as you'll see in any theater in the world and the triple combination of waterfall, great antelope and stag and the white bodies of the posing girls made it tremendously effective.

To return to Carmen.

To return to Carmen. She appears twice. In the first act she comes on during the Spanish num

There are, besides Chiquita, two dancing teams, male tap dancer and a girl acrobatic dancer. All are good. Then there is a corpulent comedian whose stuff gets laughs though it does show age in places.

The Capitol screen feature is "Bedside" with Warren William. It is itself excellent screen fare. A story of a faker who secures a surgeon's license through another man's name—a dope addict who'll sell anything. dope addict who'll sell anything, name, profession, honor, for his drug. Jean Muir, a comparative newcomer, is the leading lady and she is really beautiful and even looks intelligent. It is quite a fascinating story if you overlook some angles that are straining to the credulity.

There is a W. C. Fields short comedy which, to my mind, is sufficient excuse for a trip to the theater alone, a Paramount Pictorial and other added attractions ed attractions

The social service committee of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Atlanta, Mrs. Forrest C. McKinney, chairman, is sponsoring the effort of the local organization to secure employment for business and professional women. This effort is in line with the plan and campaign of the national federation, which hopes to secure permanent employment for at least 10,000 "white collar" women before the opening of national business women's week, March 11-17. Mrs. McKinney's committee, with the assistance of the officers of the Atlanta club, is working diligently to secure club, is working diligently to secure places for at least the minimum num-ber allocated to the local organization, as well as to render any service possible to business or professional wom-en of the community in need of serv-ice. Because of past connections in the business world, and because of her experience in personnel service particularly, Mrs. McKinney is specially equipped to head this worth-while effort. Every member of the Atlanta club of Business and Professional Women is being appealed to in order to make the work successful. Other

INSTALLMENT XXVI.

Sylvia was holding her coat out when she hung up. Charity slammed her hat on and called to the maid as she ran out the door, "I'll let you know, Sylvia."

Rafferty waited for her in the hallway. They ran to the elevator, Rafferty taking the trembling girl's arm to give her much needed support.

In the limousine Charity sat back weakly and closed her eyes. Was Doug dying? It couldn't be. He was too young to die like that. Broken and mangled. Suddenly Charity put her hands over her eyes and shuddered. But the picture could not be blotted out. She began to cry, first softly, then sobs shook her.

It was a long drice, but there was almost no traffic at that hour of the morning and Rafferty broke all speed laws. In a little more than an hour Charity saw the lights of the hospital a short distance away. She sat up and dried her eyes, calling again upon the calm courage that always sustained her in time of emergency.

When she walked into the hospital her face was set and white but she

When she walked into the hospital her face was set and white but she had regained her composure.

"I'm Mrs. Temple," she said quietly to the nurse at the dask.

"Oh, yes," the girl got up. "I'll call Dr Brandt. Will you sit down?" Charity sat down on the edge of a little bench and clenched her icy hands. In a few seconds a tall white-heired man in immaculate white came.

hands. In a few seconds a tall white-haired man in immaculate white came down the hallway. He bowed, and when Charity started to get up he put a restraining hand on her arm and sat down beside her. "Mrs. Temple," he began sympa-thetically, "you must be prepared for a very great shock."

Charity nodded but found she could Charity nodded but found she could not speak.

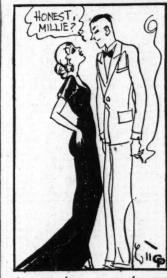

"Your husband is very critically injured. There is little hope for his recovery. He—was not alone."

Charity swayed, and Dr. Brandt put an arm around her shoulders.

"Was—was the person—with him—badly hurt?" Charity asked in a low halting voice that could scarcely be heard.

"She cannot possibly recover."
"Who—who is it?"
"A Miss Vandergriff, I believe." Yanner! Yanner was dying. Dr. Brandt kept his arm about Charity while she dropped her head and fought again for self-control.
"There," he said kindly when her trembling ceased, "you must be as brave as possible. Do you feel equal to going in to see your husband now? He's been calling for you."

"For—me?" Charity asked blankly.
"For you."

The doctor smiled and pulled Charity to her feet. As they walked along the corridor he added conversationally, "He's been calling your name ever since he was brought in. A truckman saw the wreck and phoned the hospital a little after 9. At first we wondered who 'Charity' was, but one of the little probationers who reads the society column said she was sure your name was Charity."

"He—he is delirious?"

The doctor knew why Charity had asked that question. He turned at the door to smile reassuringly.

"People in delirium usually call for the creat there were the waret were?" he exit for her. All thoughts of hatred were gone.

the door to smile reassuringly.

"People in delirium usually call for the one they want most," he said. "I'm sure you can do him a great deal of good. But you must be calm. It would never do to break down."

Charity squared her shoulders as Dr. Brandt opened the door.

"I-I'll be all right."

The doctor motioned to the nurse who sat beside Doug's bed, holding his wrist.

"I'd like to see you a moment, Miss Tell."

The nurse gave Charity a slight nod, went out and closed the door. Charity was alone with Doug. She bent over him tenderly.

"Doug.—Doug, dear."

His face was a white mask below the brown head swathed in bandages. He looked so young and boyish and you helpless Charity found her heart going out to him with a tenderness that almost suffocated her. Oh, the dear, and Charity knew he was going to speak. She bent closer to him.

"Doug, it's I—I—Charity."

His lips moved.

"Charity stepped back, her hand to her throat. Doug was telling her to go away. He wanted Yanner. She wanted to run from the room. Doug stirred again.

"Charity—Charity. Where is Charity."

"You lie," he said huskily, "you're Mystified, Charity touched a tanned hand that lay on the coverlet, and that lay on the coverlet, and hand that lay on the coverlet, and that lay on the coverlet, and hand that lay on the coverlet, and hand that lay on the coverlet, and hand that lay on the coverlet, and how hand given me the air?"

Charity seaped back, her hand to her throat. Doug was telling her to go away. He wanted to run from the room. Doug stirred again.

Charity knew when she saw the broken body of little Yanner Vandergriff lying on the hard cold hospifal bed that she had nothing but pity in her heart for her. All thoughts of hatred were gone.

"You lie," he said huskily, "you're Yanner!"

Mystified, Charity touched a tanned hand that lay on the coverlet, and said again tenderly.

"Doug, listen to me. This is Charity—your wife."

The words seemed to penetrate to his dazed brain. She saw him struggle to open his eyes.
"Charity—Charity?"

She put her hand on his face softly.
"Doug."

His eyes opened for a second and he smiled weakly.

"Just a couple of days ago—he—he came to me and said he was through. He—he told me he—loved you—and lout of myself. Oh—Charity I'm—so—ashamed."

Charity bent and put her black head close to the little blond one.
"It doesn't matter. Yanner. I'm open with you. You're going to get well and we're going to be good—friends."

By JOHN L. COOLEY. NEW YORK, March 5 .- (AP)-Trading in the stock exchange came close to a stalemate today.

A few tobacco and non-ferrous metal issues received a little bullish attention, but on the whole price changes were narrow, and the day's turnover of 987.490 shares was the smallest since January 9.

The price average of 90 representative issues sagged .4 of one point, but the bond market held about steady.

but the bond market held about steady. Commodities were quiescent. Grains sagged fractionally; cotton was barely changed. But silver futures slid off 25 to .45 of a cent an ounce, despite concurrent strength of mining stocks. President Roosevelt's NRA address was the outstanding event of financial news, and the securities market, although hesitant, seemed inclined to take the longer range view of the president's challenge to industry to shorten working hours and increase wages.

The stress laid on trying to increase the buying power of the general public, to promote general economic well-being, found a sympathetic response in several financial quarters.

The day's rather scant quota of business and corporate news included further evidence of improvement. American Iron and Steel Institute estimated ingot production this week at 47.7 per cent of capacity, the highest since September, and up 2 percentage points from a week ago.

Activity in the non-ferrous metal and tobacco issues was regarded in brokerage quarters as largely profesand tobacco issues was regarded in brokerage quarters as largely profesbrokerage quarters as largely professional.

Definite news to account for the strength of tobaccos was lacking, but rumors of a forthcoming favorable annual statement by Liggett & Myers was mentioned in brokerage quarters.

Homestake Mining had one of its characteristically wide moves, advancing 20 points to 350. United States Smelting rose a couple of points. Liggett & Myers Tobacco B jumped 3 points. American Tobacco B, 2, and Reynolds B, 1 point. Fractional losses appeared in such issues as American Telephone, Chrysler, General Motors, Hudson, Nash, New York Central, United States Steel, Union Pacific and Westinghouse Electric. New York Central rights to the new convertible bonds were moved up from the curb, and closed at 2.

MOVE NARROWLY

By BERNARD S. O'HARA.

NEW YORK, March 5.—(P)—Narrow changes predominated at the close of the curb market today.

Metals were virtually the only division which showed uniform improvement. Newmont gained 7-8 point while smaller fractions were added by Bunker Hill & Sullivan and Lake Shore Mines. Oils, utilities and alcohols were slightly irregular.

Gulf Oil and Lynch Corporation each lost a point and fractional recessions occurred in Electric Bond & Share, Canadian Industrial Alcohol "A," and Parker Rust-Proof. Hiram Walker, Humble Oil, Swift & Company and Natomas Company finished steady to a little higher.

Transfers approximated 261,000 shares compared with 315,000 for last Friday.

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS.
FENNER & BEANE—Until the market assumes a more decisive price trend we would expect a selective movement in stocks, influenced largely by the immediatetrade prospects.

BEER & CO.—From indications Monday, to seems likely that stocks will continue of fluctuate within a fairly narrow trading range pending the development of out-dependent.

DOBBS & CO.—With the narrow trading range preserved throughout the day it ap-pears almost necessary for the market to break out in a decisive way in order to rebreak out in a decisive way in order to re-stablish the trend.

COURTS & CO.—The market seems to be still waiting for developments in Wash-ington as regards the stock exchange con-trol bill This dull condition is likely to continue until we find what form of legiscontinue until we find what to be the lation is likely to result.

LIVINGSTON & CO.—We expect business news to be the malu determinant of stock prices, but probably not before there has been some further backing and filling in the trading range.

FENNER & BEANE—Trading sentiment is less favorable to the buying side. We believe, however, that buying on dips will is less favorable to the buying side. We believe, however, that buying on dips will preduce the believe of the best policy in the long run.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO. TO DOBBS & CO.—Should any further important newscome out of Washingtdo regarding our monetary policy, or the Bankhead bill a sharp raily would be brought about.

COURTS & CO.—We do not feel at all confident that immediately higher prices will follow the passage of the Bankhead bill, and would only make purchases on very substantial sethacks.

LIVINGSTON & CO.—There is little inclination to trade until something more is known regarding the Bankhead bill. But it should not be forgotten that there is a good-sized speculative long interest in the market that is awaiting a favorable apportunity to liquidate and with the trade showing less negression on the buying side some of the old longs may decide to get out of their position before the crowd.

FENNER & BEANE-A conse the wheat market is preferred at titude in the wheat market is preferred at this level.

BEER & CO.—We would maintain a side-line position in the wheat market for the time being.

U. S. Dollar Advances AgainstPoundSterling By the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.
French francs, Dutch guilders and others of the "gold bloc" currencies advanced slightly against both dollars and British pound sterling in foreign exchange markets yesterday.

Only $2,080,750 in gold was offered in the London open market and this was purchased by various interests at an equivalent of $34.72 a fine ounce, one-half penny an ounce lower than the previous business day.

The dollar was firm in London, clossing 3-4 of a cent higher at $5.07 1-4 to the pound, and in New York sterling yielded 1-2 cent to end at $5.07.

In Paris the dollar was steady and closed at an equivalent of 6.57 cents to the franc. In New York francs finished a trifle higher at 6.58 1-2 cents.

Based on the franc at its final New York rate, the dollar was valued at approximately 59.53 per cent of its former parity compared with 59.58 per cent Saturday and 63.61 per cent a month ago.

NEW YORK, March 5 .- (A)-Trading in cotton was comparatively quiet today and prices moved within a range of some 10 or 15 points. Aftter selling off to 12.23 for July during the morning, prices steadied up on covering and trade buying, advancin to 12.36 for that position in the later trading. July closed at 12:33 with the general market closing steady, 4 points net higher to 1 point lower. Initial offerings were readily absorbed by trade or commission house buying but moderate bulges met increased realizing or liquidation following an easier turn in the stock lowing an easier turn in the stock market, and prices sagged to 12.11 for May and 12.37 for October, or about 6 points below Saturday's closing quotations. The decline was checked by trade buying at these prices and the market promoted by reports that a special rule was being sought in the house for early consideration of the Bankhead bill and a steadier tone in the later stock market. May sold up to 12.23 and October to 12.50, making net advances of 5 to 8 points, lut closing prices were 3 or 4 points int closing prices were 3 or 4 points off from the best on most positions.

Exports today were 23,145, making 5,695.411 so far this season. Port receipts, 10,930. United States port stocks, 3,345,775.

stocks, 3,345,775.

There were rumors that the International Federation estimated world's cotton mill consumption of American cotton for the 'six months ended January 31, at 7,018,000 bales, which would be about in line with figures recently discussed in the trade here. Liverpool cables said that some trade huying on limits there had been supplied by liquidation attributed to the lass favorable New York advices of Saturday and some doubt as to the effectiveness of cotton crop control measures.

SLIGHT UPTURNS NOTED IN NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, March 5 .- (A)-NEW ORLEANS, March 5.—(P)—Cotton fluctuated uncertainly today, dipping early and recovering later to close steady 1 to 5 points net higher. Trading was comparatively quiet as traders marked time on expected Washington developments, particularly action on the Bankhead bill.

The opening was easier as Liverpool cables came in rather lower than due. Manchester reported buying in cloth and yarns restricted by the decline in raw cotton prices.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 1 to 2 penny points up.

COLD KILLS PEACHES

IN SOUTHERN ILLINOIS CENTRALIA, Ill., March 5.—(P) Southern Illinois peaches will be few this year, the Illinois Fruit Growers Exchange said today. The sub-zero temperatures last week killed virtually all of the peach crop except in two counties.

Harry W. Day, manager, estimated the peach crop in the Centralia area would average only about 5 per cent.

the bill will be modified in a manner which will work no imposition on trading. But Wall Street is not thoroughly convinced of this.

Industrial news continued favorable to the market. Steel production advanced another 2 points to 47.7 percent of capacity, as announced by the American Iron & Steel Institute. Motor car production holds up and Wall Street expects a favorable report from General Motors on sales Thursday. Railroad car loadings appear improving.

With all these conflicting views, the stock market still is no place for the timid. Brokers maintained an 'on-the-fence' attitude pending some clarification and sidelines are recom-(Copyright, 1934, by United Press.)

twice signed off in hearts and not hearing any heart support.

South quite correctly surmises that there is probably a heart loser in the hand since on the psychic opening bid West is marked with whatever strength the East and West players have and that if North is allowed to play the hand at six hearts, a club opening through the acc-queen will probably defeat the contract, as the West player, when he gets in, will be able to cash a club trick. South therefore gambles on being able to take 12 tricks playing the hand at notrump, and thereby eliminates the immediate danger of an opening club lead. West's opening lead was his fourtheset spade, which was won in dumerable the later. The heart fivers the sure that the sure th best spade, which was won in dum-my with the knave. The heart finesse was taken and lost, and West now shifted to a diamond. Declarer now quite properly decided from the bid-ding that the simple club finesse for that twelfth trick was out of the question. However, from the previous play West was marked with the spade queen, and, from the bidding, he prob-ably had the knave of clubs as well ably had the knave of clubs as well as the king. South therefore played the ace of clubs out of his own hand, took his three diamond tricks and then ran the heart suit. On the fifth heart he discarded the club queen from his own hand and West was hopelessly squeezed. He was unable to keep the high club to beat the ten in dummy, and in eddition keep the grand for club to beat the ten in dummy, and, in addition, keep two guards for the spade queen. West actually dis-carded a small spade, and South won the last three tricks with the aceking-ten of spades in his own hand.

Fine bidding followed by superlative play resulted in a substantial swing for North and South on the

There is no greater failacy in read to the play of the street of the play of the street world in the played to the play of the street world in the played to the play of the street of the play of the street world in the played to the play of the street world in the played to the play of the street world will bring a street which the bedomes the very better oppoints, a new high for the only high-sight on a market which closed dull and irregular to the played the played to the played the played to the played the played to the playe Answer: There is nothing you can say in protest against your bondage that won't be considered gross ingratitude. There is no effort you can make to get loose that won't be interpreted as lack of affection on your part. But in spite of all this you should begin to extricate yourself from the jam and begin now before youth is past. Nature never intended that the younger generation should be sacrificed to the older one, and the fact that you were rescued from a foundling institution doesn't give your rescuer the right to smother you to death. Your mother didn't adopt you with purely unselfish motives but she is trying to pre-empt your life with purely selfish motives. Gradually almost imperceptably you should strike for a little liberty and every time you gain an inch redouble your effort to show your affection for your mother. Go out occasionally with the date, leaving her at home without apology. Warn her occasionally that you will be late getting in.

Not only foster mothers but real mothers are guilty of this sort of sucking affection. It is the expression of a resourceless, dependent, clinging, cloying nature. It is impossible to meet the demands of such a woman without sacrificing liberty. The more given, the more is demanded, until her leach-like love has sucked the very life blood out of the victim.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

An out-and-out psychic which was made purely and simply to stop the opponents from reaching a slam contract. As a matter of fact, the bid is quite dangerous with only a five-card suit.

This call, following the four-notrump bid, shows possession of all four aces. South decided by himself to play the hand at six after North's free bid of two hearts on the second round.

North might bid six notrump himself at this point, after having twice signed off in hearts and not hearing any heart support.

South quite correctly surmises that there is probably a heart allowance and in consequence I am very shabbily dressed. I believe my husband loves me but he is under the domination of this sister. What can I do to save my pride and have a little peace in my own home? B. E.

Answer: My dear woman, there is not one thing you can do but grin and endure the humiliating circumstances in which you find yourself. The relationship between your husband and that sister is firmly established throughout a long period of years. She won't relinquish one lota of her authority. He couldn't free himself of her domination if he would and he doesn't want to. Peace you may have by resolving not to work yourself into a pet over the outrageous injustice they do you.

Perhaps heaven will be kind to and remove the sister-in-law from the scene of conflict. Only the intervention of heaven can help you. In the meantime your mother's home offers a temporary refuge where you may go occasionally for a visit when you are at the breaking point.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

25 BURGLARY CASES

BEFORE DEKALB JURY

Consideration of 25 cases of burglary was taken up Monday by the DeKalb county grand jury of which William Candler, Atlanta hotel man, was elected foreman.

The first indictments announced by the grand jury were two for involuntary manslaughter against Elemer Pierce, 15-year-old Stone Mountain boy, whose car struck and killed Eva Queen and Joseph Johnston, both 12-year-old school pupils, on January 24, at the Shady Grove school. Pierce said he hit the two children accident-

24, at the Shady Grove school. Pierce said he hit the two children accidentally as they were crossing the road to enter the school building.

Edward Verville and William A. Rogers, now held in default of $10.000 bonds each in Fulton county following their indictment for numerous burglaries in Atlanta, will be indicted again by the DeKalb jury for the burglary of Mr. Candler's home. Judge James C. Davis charged the body.

Earnings.

NEW YORK, March 5.—The annual report of the American Tobacco Company shows net income in 1933 of $17.401.207 after depreciation, taxes and other charges, but before preferred dividends. This compares with net income of $43.299.026 in 1932 which was after deducting $512.293 and loss on sale of securities and $213.487 miscellaneous deductions.
